

ABSTRACT

An information recording method, including steps of: creating an identification information specifically in either one of an image information containing one or more set of image data or a recording medium; and corresponding the image information and the identification information to each other and recording the image information and the identification information on the recording medium.